Education
Concurrent Sessions

9:00 - 10:15 am; repeated at 1:00 - 2:15 pm

DEEP Inspections by Diane Jorsey, CT DEEP Pesticide Program, Enforcement Coordinator.

A DEEP inspection is a part of what makes our regulated industry work. Inspections promote awareness of and compliance with the rules to the benefit of those who correctly conduct their business. In this talk Diane will discuss inspections of arborist businesses and the work of the Pesticide Program.

10:30 - 11:45 am; repeated at 2:30 - 3:45 pm

Making Space For Trees In The Urban Environment by Richard Harper, UMASS Assistant Professor of Urban/Community Forestry.

Urban trees face a myriad of complex and challenging circumstances, not the least of which is available room below ground. Limited root space may impede plant performance, encourage pest populations and even lead to early mortality. We'll highlight hands-on strategies to "make space" and improve the vitality of urban trees.

9:00 - 10:15 am; repeated at 1:00 - 2:15 pm

Research Updates by CAES Scientists

Katherine Dugas, Agricultural Research Assistant.

This talk will be on something old and something new.

Katherine will start with the Emerald Ash Borer, EAB, and continue with the Lanturn Fly.

Adriana Arango-Velez PhD, Assistant Scientist II.

Adriana will speak about the Southern Pine Beetle, SPB and how it affects Connecticut forests.

Peter Trenchard, Agricultural Research Technician.

Peter's topic is the gypsy moth. He will cover the station's efforts to track the gypsy moth and give its current status.

10:30 - 11:45 am; repeated at 2:30 - 3:45 pm

Climber Exchange - Managing Friction by Tim Bushnell, Regional Business Manager, for Sherrill Tree.

This presentation will be on two separate topics. The first topic is on Mechanical Friction Devices and will discuss and demonstrate the advantages and disadvantages of a variety of mechanical friction hitches for tree climbers. The second topic will cover Friction Saving Devices. There will be a discussion and demonstration of the devices available for reducing friction at the anchor point.
