

Electrical Hazard Awareness training is a must for everyone involved in tree care.

Simply put, it is a Basic Matter of Safety. If you work with trees, you will encounter electricity. Electricity can be very dangerous.

Do you understand all that you need to in order to work safely around electricity and power lines?

This EHAP workshop is being offered by CTPA to help prepare individuals for the electrical hazards they will face in their everyday jobs.

Attendees will learn about the electrical distribution system, the hardware used in that system, the types of electrical hazards a tree care worker is likely to face and how to be prepared when you are encountering electricity on the job.

In order to help make this workshop affordable for all who wish to attend, CTPA has subsidized the costs. Total cost for each CTPA member attendee is $135 and $155 for nonmembers. All attendees will receive the TCIA's Electrical Hazard Awareness workbook. Attendees may request this workbook in English or Spanish. Register online at www.CTPA.org or by mail with payment or PO.

If you are in tree care and have not taken an Electrical Hazard Awareness course before, you really should consider attending this one.

The Connecticut Tree Protective Association presents an Electrical Hazard Awareness Program Workshop

Thursday, November 5, 2015

at the Headquarters of Eversource

107 Selden Street, Berlin Turnpike, in Berlin, CT.

Cost - CTPA Members $135, Nonmembers $155

This price includes lunch and the EHAP Workbook and Manual.

This workshop will make attendees aware of the hazards all tree care workers face when they work around energized electrical conductors. This awareness is an essential part of basic tree care safety. It is recommended that all people who work in tree care take an EHAP course.

This one day workshop will be led by David Hawkins of Pelham, MA. Mr. Hawkins is widely respected as a consulting arborist and expert in electrical hazard awareness training. Mr. Hawkins will make use of the EHAP Workbook and Manual published by the Tree Care Industry Association. All attendees will receive this publication. Warren Rogers, Eversource Safety and Health Program Administrator, will also provide training on the equipment that makes up the electrical distribution system. Knowing what each piece is and what it does is an important part of being safe around electrical conductors.

Individuals who complete the exercises in the workbook, who receive certification in cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) methods and who also can demonstrate a basic level of skill in aerial rescue techniques are eligible to be certified as line clearance arborists. CTPA will not be providing this additional training or testing. Companies are responsible for the EHAP certification of their employees. However, guidance on achieving certification will be offered by CTPA to participants, both during and following the workshop.

CTPA encourages all companies in tree care to have an EHAP program in place for all of their employees. Cost for this workshop is $135 members/$155 nonmembers. This price includes lunch, a full day of instruction and the EHAP Manual and Workbook. To ensure your reservation, register by October 22nd.
